If delaying delivery is unavoidable, additional freight and permit charges will be passed on to the General Contractor.

- 17. General Contractor is to provide a scribed elevation on each floor for vertical control of precast erection.

Seller assumes the working surface is adequate to support the bearing pressure of the cranes and that no improvements or matting is required to operate cranes. The contractor is responsible to maintain all erection roads. Access for scissor lifts is required at all levels of the structure.
- 22. Erector assumes no responsibility for site preparation and/or damage. In the event the crane must travel or set up within the site or off the jobsite, on concrete, asphalt, or sod to successfully be erected, de-erected or perform a lift, the liability of the surface and sub-surface condition including any buried electric lines, power lines, water lines, sewage lines, storm water lines, tunnels and vaults shall become the sole responsibility of the customer.
- Gage Brothers have no site improvements, crane pads, or crane matting included in this proposal.
